SET ON FIRE.

Little Rock's Baptist College for Girls Destroyed.

Two Inmates Fatally Injured and Four Others Seriously Hurt.

THE BUILDING BURNED LIKE KINDLING AND NOTHING WAS SAVED.

This was the third attempt of incendiaries, two having been made while the structure was being erected—Students Escaped in Their Night Clothes and Only by Jumping From the Windows—Other Casualties.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 2.—The Arkansas Baptist College for girls, a large two-story frame structure, established about six years ago by one of the colored Baptist churches of this city for the education of girls, was burned this morning about 2 o'clock. The building was completed last year and began its first term last September. About fifty pupils attended the school, twenty of whom had rooms and took their meals in the building. The house burned like tinder and it was only a miracle that many of the pupils escaped with their lives. They occupied rooms in the second story of the building and nearly all were compelled to jump from the windows to save themselves.

The college, together with all contents except two desks, was destroyed. The Arkansas Journal, the organ of the colored people of Little Rock, had its office in the building and suffers a total loss of plants.

There were six persons injured, two of whom will die.

Florida Neely and Hattie Turner of Searcy, Ark., were fatally injured. The former had her back broken and the latter sustained serious internal injuries.

Ada Harris, one of the teachers of Oberlin, O., had her right leg broken.

Mary Pratt of Little Rock was injured internally, but will recover.

Irene Reid of Dermott, Ark., right arm broken.

Mary Wilson, cook, was slightly injured.

None of the occupants of the building saved anything, all escaping in their night dresses and were given shelter by families in the neighborhood. The loss will not exceed $8,000, upon which there was an insurance of $4,000.

The fire is believed to have been the work of an incendiary, two attempts having been made to burn it while it was in course of construction.

FIFTY FAMILIES HOMELESS.

BERGEN POINT, N. J., March 2.—A fire which occurred at Constable Hook at 2:30 this morning destroyed seven buildings and rendered fifty families homeless. The fire originated in one of a row of frame buildings used for stores and tenements, the occupants being mostly Hungarians. The flames spread rapidly and the inmates barely time to escape in their night clothes. The total loss is estimated between $50,000 and $60,000. The business place of Mr. J. O'Dwyer, a local contractor, who lost nearly all of his household effects, had little or no insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown.

A TRAMP KILLED.

IT IS HER REVENGE.

What O'Dwyer Has to Say About His Wife's Charge of Blackmail.

The statement made yesterday to the police by Mrs. Jennie O'Dwyer, whose husband is charged with blackmail, was a surprise to the public. Mrs. O'Dwyer, who is a widow, was in a room, caused O'Dwyer to tell a Post-Dispatch reporter to-day the circumstances that led him to commit the assault on her. She said that she had returned to work as switchman in the Missouri Pacific yards. He worked all last night and was found in bed at 8:30 South Eighteenth street this forenoon. He said that his wife had called to see him Tuesday evening and he had refused to see her. She said, "I want you," he continued, "and she said, 'Well, what do you think of all this?'"

"So far as I am concerned you won't."

"All right," she said, "I'll fix you for this."

"She went away, and I didn't know how she intended to fix me until I saw her statement in the papers. I guess she thought I would be arrested, and when I was in jail she could fix it with me by giving me no proceeds."

OVER THE VETO.

Congress Passes the Alabama Court Bill in Spite of the President.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Beyond an unusually large audience in the galleries and great noise upon the floor there was nothing in the House to-day indicating that the Fifty-second Congress, in its expiring hours, it was waiting for the Senate to act upon appropriation bills. An hour was consumed in doing practically nothing. The House took up the President's veto of the Alabama court bill. The question being on the yeas and nays, the bill passed over the veto by a vote of 178, yeas, 64, nays, 64.

COPENHAGEN'S MILK SUPPLY.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 2.—Secretary Rusk has received from Prof. C. C. George, the special agent charged with an inquiry into the dairy industry of Denmark for the United States Department of Agriculture, a report in which he gives some very interesting data relating to the milk supply of Copenhagen, an organization which supplies its citizens with absolutely pure and wholesome milk as the result of the strict enforcement of rules observed by the farmers contracting to supply it, and involving the health, care and feeding of the animals from which the milk is obtained. He describes a process called "pasteurization," which is a practical method of killing injurious bacteria, and says that the Danish butter maintains its high standard chiefly through its uniformity, no inferior butter being offered for export and the confidence of both dealer and consumer in this uniformity being so great that they know they can buy the Danish butter and be sure of getting a good article without the necessity of tasting it before they purchase.

THE INDIAN APPROPRIATION BILL.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The Indian appropriation bill has been reported to the Senate. By an agreement the appropriation of $8,730,330 for the purchase of the Cherokee lands is included in the bill. The bill makes the grand total of the bill $16,481,490. The appropriation for the current fiscal year is $7,664,047. Among the principal items added to the bill is an appropriation of $50,000 for irrigating the Navajo Reservation, $50,000 less than the estimate of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs for this purpose. It is also included the Cherokee Commission to negotiate with Indian tribes for their lands. For Indian day and Indian industrial schools there is an allowance of $216,000, and for the day and night schools for the Crow Creek and Winnebago reservations in South Dakota $190,000 is appropriated. The Post-office appropriation bill was reported to the House yesterday. The committee added to the House bill $75,000 for the cancellation of stamps, refused to allow the post office facilities for the foreign mails, in accordance with the full estimates of the department.

1,500 HAND SHAKES.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—President Harrison held his last informal public reception at the White House yesterday afternoon. These receptions are usually small affairs and are held three times each week. The attendance ranged from 100 to 300 people. The one held yesterday was the largest. The President, in point of attendance, held by Mr. Harrison since he took office. His first reception, held on March 1, was attended by more than half a million of visitors crowded through the White House in the rain. WHY IT FAILED.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 2.—In explanation of the vote on the anti-option bill, the fact must be borne in mind that by the rules of the House during the last six days of Congress any bill can be taken up out of its turn and passed if two-thirds of the members are present. The bill was introduced to suspend the rules and pass a bill. A simple majority is not sufficient. The anti-option bill, which had not two-thirds and consequently failed.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 2.—Judge John F. Phillips of the United States District Court refused to-day to grant a writ of habeas corpus for the St. Clair County judges, who are now in jail here for refusing to make a tax levy to pay off railroad bonds. In the course of his decision he took occasion to sharply score Gov. Stone for his recent State's rights message to the Legislature on the matter.

Jephtha Simpson Was Trustee.

E. B. Cowan filed two petitions in equity this afternoon to have a trustee appointed by the court to care for the trust which Jephtha Simpson as trustee failed to carry out before he committed suicide. Simpson was appointed a trustee to dispose of certain lands in Carondelet, Ill., and was failing to do so before he died. The suit is to have the Court appoint a trustee to carry out such duties. The trust is brought by Lora A. W. and E. B. Curran against Jephtha Simpson, his heirs and the Public Administrator.

MODERN TODAY.

Cleveland and Family in Washington for Four Years More.

A Magnificent Train of Special Cars for the President-Elect.

RAILROAD PRESIDENTS LOAN HIM A FEW HOURS OF THEIR LUXURY.

The Start From the "Little White House."

All Lakewood There to See the Party Depart—A Few Chosen Friends, Among Them the Faithful Dan, Accompany Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland—Tammany, Chicago and Other Democrats on the Way.

NEW YORK, March 2.—The special train that will carry Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland and their friends to Washington left the Jersey Central depot this morning at 10:14 o'clock. The train consisted of four cars. The engine was No. 88, piloted by Engineer George Houston. Just back of it was a baggage car. Then came the "Monmouth," which is the private car of President Maxwell of the Jersey Central, and the "Baltimore," the private car of President Meyer of the Baltimore & Ohio. These cars were selected for the guests of Mr. Cleveland. The car of the President-elect was the last of the train and the most magnificent. It is the Oriental, the private car of Austin Corbin, President of the Long Island Railroad. The train was in charge of S. M. Williams, Vice-President of the Jersey Central. He and General Passenger Agent P. Baldwin received the guests of Mr. Cleveland who left with the train at Jersey City.

When the train pulled out the following were on board, having been invited by Mr. Cleveland:

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lamont, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Dickson, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Watson Glider, Dr. and Mrs. John D. Bryant, C. E. Benedict and family, Mrs. S. M. Williams and daughter and Robert O'Brien, personal secretary to Mr. Cleveland.

The Oriental is elaborately fitted up for the President-elect. All its arrangements and decorations are in the hands of the Long Island Railroad.

The car consists of a drawing room in the rear. To this are added two large bedrooms. They are furnished with brass bedsteads, baths, toilet stands and all the other equipments of a residence. A small section adjoins the bedrooms and opens into the dining room. Before this room is another small section and then comes the kitchen.

The drawing and dining rooms this morning looked like bowers. Flowers were on every hand. In the center of the dining table was a large bouquet of 100 Jacqueminet roses. Besides this stood a large silver fruit stand.

The table was filled with oranges, apples, peaches, pears and tropical fruits. A number of white roses and lilies of the valley hung from the walls, on the cornices and in the little brackets that decorated the sides of the car.

The profusion of roses extended out to the bedrooms as well. The flowers in the drawing room were arranged as they were in the dining room.

The exterior is a brownish green color and the artistic paneling of the sides is lighted up with gilded festoons. The platform rails are bright silver and jeweled glass above the plate windows sparkled in the sunlight. The interior is finished in hand-carved mahogany and is a masterpiece of plush of old red tint. The curtains at the windows are of silk of rose tint with golden braid. The carpeting is of dull blue and old rose. The car has an observation room at the rear. It is lighted by incandescent electric lights by means of a storage battery.

The "Monmouth" is a seven-foot-long car, and has a deep olive green exterior. It is finished inside in quarter sawed oak, and has a long observation room at one end with sage green curtains and red plush upholstery.

The "Baltimore" is similar to the Oriental in size and general plan, but is not so rich in ornamentation. It is furnished in darkened plush, and its exterior is a dark red.

THE SCENE AT LAKEWOOD.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., March 2.—All Lakewood turned out to-day to see President-elect Grover Cleveland and party off for Washington. The day was bright with sunshine and the big crowd that came down to the station to wave farewell to the family, which has been among them two seasons, were gay with bright raincoats. Fully 2,000 persons were at the station. Half the number were ladies and they were more interested in seeing Mrs. Cleveland and Baby Ruth than the train.

The engine that brought the train was detached and No. 36 was attached to it. Bid to the other end, the route was back as far as Elizabeth, the same track the train had passed. The Lakewood train was in the rear. The train was in the rear. The train was in the rear.

The baggage car is a regular B. & O. car. It was placed in the train with the trunk and a number of boxes and packages belonging to the Cleveland family.

Chicago, as in other cities, the hoodlum is the only citizen who always puts public before private duties.

UNFORTUNATELY Prince Russell is a married man, and hence it is impossible to settle by matrimonial alliance the Hawaiian difficulty and the claim of Princess Kaiulani to the entire satisfaction of the Harrison Administration and the American people.

SHOULD the Washingtonians take it into their heads to keep up inauguration prices after the 4th of March, what will become of the patriots who flock from all parts of the country to consult Mr. Cleveland in regard to the propriety of their accepting an office under him?

It seems to be the fact that when a man has once been in office he feels that his old place or a better one should always be open to him. He does not reflect that in so populous a republic as ours there may be many others who are entitled to a share of the honors incident to our political system.

THE people have no reason to complain with the disgruntled Republican Senator that the Senate is already in control of the Democrats. The checking of the Hawaiian annexation folly and several other measures not in the interest of the people indicate that the change of control has been beneficial.

PRINCESS KAIULANI appears to share in the opinion entertained by some people that minister's sons are often bad. She complains of the missionaries' sons who are "trying to undo their fathers' work" by taking her kingdom away from her. There can be no doubt that these sons of missionaries are a trifle too worldly for the good of the cause of religion.

UNITED STATES TREASURER NEEBEKE declares that the drain of gold is largely the work of speculators on the New York Stock Exchange. Wall street, it appears from this, controls the Treasury, and we are to have good times or bad times as Wall street happens to decide for us. Why should we keep a man in the Cabinet at $8,000 per annum to manage our finances when Wall street does it for nothing?

WITH consistent profligacy the Senate has appropriated $300,000 of the people's money to aid the millionaires of New York in entertaining foreign visitors during the World's Fair. The paupers who have got rich at the public expense do not propose to abate their demands until next Saturday anyway. Whether or not they will continue to receive support from the Government depends upon the faithfulness of Democrats to their pledges made to the people.

IN the announcement of last Sunday's prize winners the word "may" in the verse selected was accidentally omitted in the printed form. The mistake thus indicated in the winning answers was only apparent, however, as the form was correctly printed in the previous advertisements, and the answers of the winners exactly corresponded with it. The subsequent discrepancy in the announcement, therefore, did not affect the justice of the awards.

IN his fight against the increase of already extravagant appropriations Senator Gorman has once more called pointed attention to the fact that many Democrats seem to have forgotten their pledges to the people. Economy is imperatively demanded, not only for its own sake, but because only by economy can the burden of taxation be removed. The next Congress will have to undo most of the work of the Reed mob, and, it must be confessed, much of what has been done by the Congress which expires next Saturday.

THE Commander-in-Chief of the Salvation Army has a scheme on hand to colonize the outcasts in America on farms where they can regain their self-respect and earn a place in the world. In England, where there is little or no available space left for the surplus population such a proposal might be reasonable but it is not easy to understand its necessity in this country. We have untold millions of acres of good land still unoccupied and which cannot be used for decades to come. If the outcasts do not avail themselves of the advantages we have it is because they are not equal to the opportunities offered or because there is some political or economic reason which prevents. The question is not one which can be settled by charity.

PRESIDENT HARRISON's liberality in the way of pardons speaks well for his humanity, but he seems to have allowed his sympathies to be worked upon by unworthy objects. This is notably true in the numerous cases of bank wreckers and robbers whom he has pardoned or whose sentences he has commuted. Conspicuous among these is that of Harper, the man who wrecked the Fidelity National Bank of Cincinnati five years ago. The conduct of this man had no excuse. On the contrary, the circumstances all pointed to a reckless neglect of every moral consideration and scores were plunged into poverty by his crime. The sentence of ten years was not too severe and should have been allowed to stand. The President's sentimentality has got the better of his sense of justice.

ALTHOUGH "one ex-Fire Chief and the present incumbent are very pronounced in their belief that the presence of the poles and overhead wires do materially obstruct effective operation of the Fire Department," the Senate Underground Wire

Committee concluded from other evidence that the "poles and overhead wires do not materially obstruct the operation of the Fire Department." As the testimony of the "ex-Fire Chief and the present incumbent" represented about all the fire-fighting experience in this city since it has had much of a fire department or many overhead wires, it is difficult to understand on what principle the committee rejected it. But perhaps it was not a matter of principle.

WHEREVER the morning papers both muster up courage enough to let a committee of advertisers ascertain and publish the facts about newspaper circulation within the city of St. Louis, the POST-DISPATCH will be "in it," prepared to satisfy the referees that its circulation, both on Sundays and week days, has been for many years past, and still is, many thousands larger than that of either of the morning papers. As the great home paper of St. Louis, with a constantly and rapidly increasing circulation, the POST-DISPATCH has for years, but in vain, begged for such a competitive examination as an act of sheer justice to the advertising merchants who obtain 95 per cent of their trade from city people. Again and again in the past we have offered to prove a city circulation exceeding the combined circulations of both morning papers; but the show down was defeated every time by the one that now pretends to be eager for it.

PEOPLE VS. CORPORATIONS.

THE report of the majority of the Senate Investigating Committee on the Stone wire bill is summed up in the opinion that the State Legislature should not interfere in this matter because the "city, by an amendment to its charter, can compel all of the said wires to be placed under ground within the time limited by the Stone bill without any legislation whatever on the part of the General Assembly of this State."

IF this position with reference to the Stone wire bill is adopted how can the legislative interference embodied in the Stone street improvement bill be justified? In the case of the former there is grave doubt of the power of the city to do what the committee says it can do. Despite the committee's jaunty manner of disposing of the question of the city's power there is high legal authority for the statement that the city cannot force the wires under ground without an enabling act from the Legislature. On the other hand, in the case of the Stone street improvement bill there is no doubt of the city's power to accomplish its object without legislative permission. Yet this act has passed the House and is fairly certain of adoption.

THE people of the city overwhelmingly favor the wire bill, which is opposed by corporations, and the people are opposed to the street improvement bill, which is being pushed by corporations and contractors.

IS the Legislature willing to stultify itself by refusing to interfere where its aid is needed and demanded by the people and by interfering where interference is against the will and interests of the people? Does it propose to give public proof that it wags as the corporations nod?

NO SHORT SESSION.

IF the congestion which always attends the closing days of Congress resulted only in choking off legislation the country might well rest content over it, but unfortunately happens that much vicious work is done in the haste and confusion of the last week. Just now millions are being saddled upon the country in appropriations for which there is no pressing need, but which cannot be properly debated owing to want of time. Some of the most important legislation of the session does not reach the President until the last hours of the Congress and hence he is forced to approve many questionable features in a law because to reject them would be to veto a necessary act. The week ending with the 4th of March is the jobber's opportunity.

Much of this congestion comes from deliberate waste of time which ought to be profitably employed. Few people ever think about the enormous cost to the country of its alleged humor as exemplified in some of the time-killing speeches of Congressmen who never get their names in print except as jokers. Death is also costly, not so much on account of expensive funerals, but because of the time consumed in so-called eulogies, in which the virtues of the dead and now generally forgotten members are set forth with elaborate particularity. All this waste of hours is a preparation for a rush at the last moment, when both houses cease to be "deliberative bodies."

The fault is, however, in having any "short session." Between December and March there is not time enough to transact all the public business which should properly be considered. Every new Congress should meet as soon as possible after its election, and the two sessions should be so arranged as to provide all the time needed. This is a reform which is imperative and which the people demand. It ought to be one of those undertaken by the Democratic majority in the Fifty-third Congress.

IN the House of Commons, the other day, Mr. William G. Cavendish-Bentinck wanted to know the steamship New York, built twenty-one years ago on his Nebraska farm last year. Such a man in the Secretary of Agriculture ought to be able to get some valuable information for the farmers in the occasional documents issued from his department, the signing of which constitutes, it is understood, the chief duty of that position.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

TO the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: It may not take all kinds of people to make this world, but they are here. Of late a number of individuals made attempts to criticize and disprove certain facts published over my signature. While every one is entitled to express his or her opinions, the critics should always stick to the text. Calling names and insinuations prove nothing to the contrary, but the signs and symptoms that the writers are entirely ignorant of the subject are too manifest to need pointing out. The truth very carefully. One writer showed his indignation by calling me an old crank; another gave me a fair and square beating in a fit of blackguardism and emotional insanity. He used terms which no gentleman would employ. My critics have made me, and the fact still stares us in the face that, contrary to the denials of those who would have us believe that we are not, we are in the hands of the few and the masses with their noses at the grindstone nearly every day in the year. There is no innocent pleasure, no recreation, no time for education and self-culture for the average toiler. Employment is made artificially scarce and heads of families are compelled to send their children to work in factories and shops under conditions all this would not be, but as soon as the remedy for the ills of the body politic is pointed out, there arises such a hue and cry, such a storm of indignation from those who pretend to believe the old chestnut that everything is as it is right, that one stands abashed at so much long-earred ignorance. Divine laws are willfully and maliciously ignored and man-made laws substituted, and charity, nobility, charity, is perverted from its true course and put to the use of a party machine.

BEING denied the inherent right to employ themselves, man commits deeds that are dark and gloomy. Teachers bow to those who neither toll nor spin and yet are clothed in all the splendor of the lilies, and the commandment "Love thy neighbor as thyself" is entirely lost sight of.

IF those who claim that all the misery, poverty, crime, insanity, disease, lying, perjury, profligacy, etc., is something that cannot be abolished, in fact is decreed of Providence, if that is so, why do we not believe in the workingmen have all they need and to the contrary, instead of using honest means and snail-gaiting tactics, would swap places with the tailors who struggle for an existence, and would become painfully aware that there is a vast difference between a tax-exempt and a tax-paying Uncle Tom.

THE New York Herald says that the people of New York have a warm sympathy for dogs. After awhile, let us hope, a warm sympathy for human beings may be developed. Many dogs in New York have better homes than they would have if they were merely human.

MR. HARRISON, at his final reception, shook hands for half an hour and then "escaped." Did anything happen to the patent hand-shaker, or had it been kindly forwarded to Mr. Cleveland by the outgoing President before the reception began?

MR. JOSEPH JEFFERSON, in his discourse on the drama, made no mention whatever of Mr. Corbett or Mr. Sullivan. Mr. Jefferson's advancing years have probably prevented his observing the improvements and changes in his profession.

IT seems that the inauguration is to be attended by large numbers of both parties. At least, the Washington saloons have quadrupled their barkeepers.

PERHAPS the proposed Sunday concert in the Pension building was intended to start the new Administration on the Wanamaker hymns.

WITH the Cabinet complete and the St. Louis base ball club nearly all signed, things appear to be about ready for business.

IT is to be hoped that Tesla will not try to get control of the presidential lightning and operate the national conventions.

THE Cleveland Cabinet will have to fascinate the country by its intellect rather than by its personal beauty.

A GRAB GAME.

From the New York World.

IT appears that the American Minister Stevens was himself an active participant in this conspiracy, if not in fact its original instigator. It was his promise of support, by the force on board the Boston, which enabled the conspirators to raise their movement to the dignity of a revolution, and that promise, according to the statements now made, was given in advance and carried out before any pretense of necessity arose. The Boston men were landed when the town and country were perfectly quiet, when no interest was in any way engendered, and when the questions between the Government and the people had been satisfactorily adjusted. It was their landing which overthrew the Government and made the revolution possible.

In other words, the lawful Government of Hawaii was overthrown by armed men from the Boston, acting under orders from the American Minister. The Provisional Government was set up by him to offer annexation to the United States.

the women keep off. They have no right to expect to dictate to it a war which they think it would be a good thing if the motor-car on that car would stop for men only, and make the tickers wait for the motor-car. Sometimes one may not notice that the car is a smoking car until fairly inside, I made that mistake once myself. There being several gentlemen I had hardly seated myself before I was asked if I smoked was objectionable to some, and I felt it was a pity I had no business, and I felt it at once and made up my mind I had to go to the city limit. I was in the time when everyone is anxious to get their business I would not catch again. While I do not like tobacco smoke I would prefer to sit in a car if it was so thick you could cut it than to sit in a seat where somebody has been chewing. Of all nasty nuisances I think that the worst.

Poor and Rich Both Needed.

TO the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: I read in this evening's paper a letter from "Mordred," in which he criticized "Mildred's" letter to "Uncle Tom," and was amused at her remark. She thinks it would never do for all men to be wealthy, as there would be no work to do; neither would it do for all men to be poor, as there would be no work to do. I agree with "Aunt Mildred" that it would not do to be all alike. We want all kinds of people in our world. Tom if this country did not suit him to leave it. Now, that a privilege. There is some people in our city to night that would give me a fair and square beating in a fit of blackguardism and emotional insanity. He used terms which no gentleman would employ. A Cent's Complaint.

TO the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: Pardon a few of the contentions for showing in the last issue of the Post-Dispatch, "Bible verses." It seems to lack the usual fairness and satisfaction that always marks the Post-Dispatch. A verse should be chosen which has no duplicate (go to sleep) in filling out the skeleton and copy. Otherwise any verse in that book selected, that fills in, should be accepted, or the answer, "Such and such a verse is not in the Bible." If not, one is completely "at sea," unless, perhaps, fortunate enough to hold the "inside track" in the matter. In the last two results, where other verses were to our estimation equally correct as far as the Bible goes, we were told that particular ones selected without a specified reason, it is like a case of three times two are six, or two times three are six. We should like to see the degrees of certainty as to what is a verse.

A CENT'S COMPLAINT.

TO the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: I was plainly stated on coupon that the verse contained "a commendation and promised blessing." Watch for the key next time. Ed. Post-Dispatch.

THE Victims of the Smoker.

TO the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: The violent and unwarranted assumption that ladies "like" or "don't object" to the fumes of a filthy tobacco smoke because their necessities or convenience compel them to patronize the smoking cars in preference to waiting in the cold, or rain or crowd for another train, is a very poor excuse for a filthy smoking car simply forces her to a choice of evils. It is a choice between a bad selection rather than "attract attention" by getting on. The root of the evil is in permitting smoking in all public places to the annoyance of others who have an equal right to be there with the smokers. Tobacco, like good liniment, should be for external use only. G. W. B.

THE Smoker Controversy.

TO the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: I should like to ask you if he has been asked for the last fifteen years and is not aware of the fact that there are several thousand young ladies employed who are obliged to go down town every morning as well as gentlemen, and at the same time. It is she who should have some consideration, and not the ladies who can sit in her own car and pleasure and time. Yes, sister Pauline, I agree with you. Why do gentlemen prefer standing room in a crowded so-called smoking car to sitting in a comfortable first-class car? Why do they prefer to sit in a crowded smoking car to sitting in a comfortable first-class car? Why do they prefer to sit in a crowded smoking car to sitting in a comfortable first-class car?

Representative Smith of Falls: "I changed my vote from the forenoon to the afternoon because of having misunderstood the intent of the bill. I did not understand it was within the power of a majority of property-owners to propose a street car line. I also believed St. Louis wanted it because a majority of the St. Louis members supported it."

Representative Sherrell, Pemiscott County: "In the forenoon I believed the bill was a bad one, but when I was informed by the people themselves by a charter amendment and that such a course might be taken, I changed my vote and I voted for it."

Representative Maune, St. Louis: "I have already explained why I was induced to change my vote. I was induced to change my vote because I was informed by Mr. Ameling that the real estate speculators and contractors were trying to work a scheme to build a new street car line in the outlying districts. When he changed his argument I saw to pieces his judgment and I voted against it."

NO GETTING OUT OF IT.

The Fates Were Against Them and the King Was Unbroken.

From the Detroit Tribune.

There were tall-tale furrows in the powder that besprikled her cheek.

She had been weeping, beyond the shadow of a doubt.

She shivered and grew sick at heart when the clasp for whose footsteps she had been listening all the evening rustled imperiously forward and kissed her hand.

"How angelic!"

He pressed his lips fervently upon her third knuckle.

"—in you to send for me."

She smiled sadly.

"Yes," she murmured in a voice heavy with emotion. "I have decided to revoke my refusal. I will marry you."

An ethereal joy transfigured his countenance.

"Oh, heaven—"

It was the grateful cry of a happy soul.

"—be praised."

With streaming eyes he gathered her yielding form to his breast.

"And did you find," he warmly demanded, "that you loved me after all?"

"No—"

It was as if an arrow had pierced his heart.

"—but I did find that I couldn't set your engagement ring off my finger, do what I could, and I was left with only one alternative."
